THE PLANET OF THE APES is a 1968 American science fiction film about the first contact between humans and apes, where these two species first live in harmony. Set in an isolated community, the film follows a gorilla in human clothing, Caesar (voice of Roddy McDowall), who encounters a band of human rebels. The film is the third in the Planet of the Apes series, and the first released in the United States. Plot A band of humans are led by the charismatic Malcolm (or Col. Kurtz) and they have discovered a long-buried City of the Lost World, with an intact ecosystem and anthropoid remains. There they meet a gorilla who lives nearby and aids them as they try to decipher the baffling writings on the walls of the city. The leader of the human tribe becomes violently insane, and sets out to destroy the apes. The apes are captured and manipulated by the humans. Malcolm tells a group of his tribe to stay behind to help Caesar and his friend San Francisco escape the traps and get to the City of the Great Ones. When the tribe is distracted by a shock wave from an explosion, they are taken prisoner by the human leader. Caesar's son, Caesarion 82157476af
